

So this is a story of mine, that happened with me. I was coming back to home from my university while riding a bus. While riding i saw a funny text written on the cover of the seat in front of me. I found it wholesome too, so i took a picture. After reaching home i send that picture to some of my friends and they laughed. It was a fun thing.